Evelyn Scott School - Food Technology Information

Dear Families,

As part of their studies in Food Technology at Evelyn Scott School, your student will be working in the school's Food Technology Kitchens. To minimise the risks to all students, we need to be aware of any food allergies or intolerances they may suffer, as well as any culturally relevant food preferences. If you have not already listed any known allergies on your child's enrolment form, please let us know below. If you have any questions or concerns, please contact our Food Technology teacher, Teresa Ulrich: teresa.urlich@ed.act.edu.au.

- We do not include any nuts (or ingredients derived from nuts) in our recipes. However, there may be other ingredients present in the facility which could potentially trigger a reaction
- Staff will make every effort to minimise or eradicate the risk of exposure
- We cannot guarantee that utensils used in the food labs have not been in contact with allergens in previous uses, or that minute quantities of these substances are not present in the products used
- Learners are not obliged to consume anything that they have cooked, although they are generally expected to participate in the preparation of cooking the food, as these experiences contribute to course outcomes
- Learners must always wear fully enclosed footwear within the Food Technology spaces
- Long hair must also be tied back at all times whilst participating in practical lessons

Please assist us by completing the following Google Form as soon as possible.

ESS Food Technology - Learner Dietary Information 2024

Students will be able to participate in practical lessons once a parent/carer has submitted a response via this form. Please submit a separate response for each child if you have multiple children attending ESS Senior Campus.

Kind Regards,

Teresa Ulrich
